Oliver Della Costa Stuenkel is a political analyst, author, speaker, Senior Fellow at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace in Washington, D.C., and researcher at Harvard. He is also a Professor of International Relations at Fundação Getulio Vargas (FGV) in São Paulo.

His research focuses on geopolitics and the global order, Brazilian foreign policy, Latin American politics, and emerging powers. He is the author of several books on geopolitics, including The BRICS and the Future of Global Order and The Post-Western World, which have been translated into multiple languages. He is also a columnist for Foreign Policy and O Estado de S. Paulo, a commentator on Brazilian television and radio, and one of Latin America's leading foreign policy analysts. Stuenkel advises some of the region's largest companies on issues related to geopolitical risk.

His articles have been published in major international relations journals, including International Affairs, Global Governance, Oxford Review of Economic Policy, Global R2P, and Conflict, Security and Development. He has also written for Foreign Affairs, The New York Times, Financial Times, Global Times, Mail & Guardian, Times of India, The Hindu, Folha de S. Paulo, Valor Econômico, and O Globo. From 2016 to 2021, he was a columnist for El País.

He has been a visiting professor at the University of São Paulo, an International Chair at the Libera Università Internazionale degli Studi Sociali Guido Carli (LUISS) in Rome, and a visiting scholar at the School of International Studies at Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU) in New Delhi.

Oliver holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Valencia in Spain, a master's in Public Policy from the Harvard Kennedy School, and a Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Duisburg-Essen in Germany.

He is an alumnus of Western Reserve Academy (WRA). He has visited more than 100 countries and lived in Venezuela, Uruguay, the United States, Spain, Germany, France, and India. He speaks Portuguese, Spanish, English, German, and French. He lives in Washington, DC.
